|     | Question: Please confirm the amount BC Hydro has accounted for in the financial statements as a contingent liability for future Aboriginal accommodation costs  |
|     | Response: BC Hydro does not consider any amounts in its financial statements to be “a contingent liability for future Aboriginal accommodation costs” related to the Site C project. BC Hydro has commitments related to its signed agreements with First Nations regarding Site C that have not yet been paid and are expected to be paid during construction – these are included in quarterly report of future commitments but are not contingent liabilities. |
