

Site C Employment by Month: December 2016

Since construction started in summer 2015, BC Hydro's Site C Clean Energy Project has been creating jobs for British Columbians. In the coming months and years, many more jobs will be created as main civil works increases activities, and as major contracts get underway for turbines and generators, transmission and the generating station and spillways.

The table below shows the latest Site C employment numbers.<sup>1</sup> As with any construction project, the number of workers — and the proportion from any particular location — will vary month-to-month and also reflects the seasonal nature of construction work

December 2016 Highlights

- The latest employment statistics show that there were 1,916 total workers on the Site C project in December 2016.
- Of the total workers, 1,572 were from British Columbia, or 82%.
- There were 690 workers on site from the Peace River Regional District — that's 45% of the Construction and Non-Construction contractor's workforce.
- There were 187 Aboriginal employees working for Construction and Non-Construction Contractors*.

During the month of December 2016, there were no workers working under the federal Temporary Foreign Worker Program from Construction and Non-Construction Contractors. BC Hydro has contracted companies for major contracts, such as main civil works, who have substantial global expertise. In December, there were 28 management and professionals working on the project through the federal International Mobility Program.

As with any construction project, the number of apprentices will vary depending on the type work being performed. There were 40 apprentices employed during the month of December 2016.

*The number of Aboriginal employees was provided by on-site Construction and Non-Construction contractors that have a contractual requirement to report on Aboriginal inclusion in their workforce. Employees voluntarily self-declare their Aboriginal status to their employer and there may be Aboriginal employees that have chosen not to do so; therefore, the number of Aboriginal employees may be higher than reported.
